Section I - Overview

Representation Disclaimer

The survey was sent out to all undergraduate students at the university. None of the questions of the survey were required for students to answer for the purposes of making the completion process up to a student's discretion. Due to every question being optional, the response rate varies by question. With this response rate, SGA's Survey Committee recommends this data be used for guidance, but not as the only source for decision making. This data is also not representative of graduate or professional students at APU, nor does it reflect the opinions of faculty, staff, or administrative members of the university.

Our Process

This survey was conducted by APU's 2023-2024 SGA Survey Committee in association with Ritchie Fuentes, Institutional Research and Assessment Coordinator in The Office of Institutional Research and Assessment. The Survey Committee communicated with each of the active offices at APU throughout this past year to create and update this year's survey. Drafts of the survey were shared and discussed with the SGA Survey Committee and SGA's advisor Matthew Browning. The survey was edited, formatted, and finalized by the Survey Committee. Mr. Fuentes oversaw inputting the questions of the survey into Qualtrics and administering the survey by sending out multiple campus-wide emails. The Survey Committee also decided upon the student winners of survey incentives and facilitated administration of incentives. The report and data analysis used only the data from the 2024 SGA Survey. Throughout the analysis, any blanks or non-responses were excluded from quantitative and qualitative data results.

How to Use this Document

This document contains a broad view of the student responses recorded in SGA's annual survey. All multiple-choice style questions (including Likert Scales, questions asking students to rank services, and questions asking students to select more than one answer) are represented by response rates and percentages. Most short answer questions are represented in Pie Charts. Categories in the Pie Chart represent a general summary of a student's response. While we hope these charts will help offices and administration gain an understanding of student concerns, they are limited in their scope, and it is recommended that anyone interested in gaining an in-depth understanding of the students' responses can contact the SGA Director of Finance (at sgadof@apu.edu) to obtain the raw data from the survey. If you would like to see a more detailed report with each question broken into class responses, you can find that here. Many (but not all) short answer questions also include a brief summary elaborating on the categories present in the Pie Chart. Because all questions are not required, we have put the total number of responses for each question; as an example, question 1 has a total of $n = 594$ responses.

Our Goal

SGA's goal for this survey is that offices, administration, staff, and faculty will utilize the student input provided from this survey to better inform decisions being made on campus. We also hope that the information gathered from this survey will be beneficial in understanding the undergraduate student experience broadly. Students fill this survey out with the hope that their feedback will make and inform changes for next year's APU climate and community. It is up to the collaboration of SGA and APU administrators to read and respond to their feedback with diligence and intentionality.

If they responded “Agree” to “I understand the purpose of the Student Government Association”, then the following question was asked:*

Do you think SGA is accomplishing its purpose? n = 451

Yes - 392

No - 59

10.) If you were President of APU for a day, what change(s) would you make to the University? n = 394

This question was first asked last year, and provided lots of feedback both for specific topics and generally for the campus. The main areas of concern were for on-campus food, chapel, communication, security, and community. Students were especially concerned with the quality and variety of food available to them, noting that options on East campus were limited and that they desired more food that was not greasy. There were also concerns with keeping Christ-centered values in classes, chapel, and general university interactions with students. Another item to note is that some of the responses clarified that they desired greater attention to budget expenses. The last major areas of concern were about communication and safety. Students responded that they desired greater communication about campus events and policies. They also replied that they were concerned about their safety on campus, with a desire for more security measures or personnel to be put in place.

The raw data for this question will also be available to campus administrators and offices to look further into areas of concern.

For those that selected "Other, please specify" the main answer was an anonymous form; the questions did update after the initial Survey was sent out, so these students had most likely not seen the "Anonymous form" option and thus wrote it in.*

With a total number of 89 responses, students had a range of responses such as one time opportunities and community meals through resources like Elim and Foothill church. There were also several people that had unique responses such as the Lū'au, the Dream Center and Azusa Scholars. Several students said they did D-Groups, which could either mean that they led them or they simply attended.*

Did not engage because:

313 people replied to this question; a majority said they were either too busy with work, school, or sports, or they did not know about the opportunities for service that are advertised through APU. A few also had complaints about the nature of the service opportunities, saying that they felt that it was for a certain kind of student at APU or that OSD is too mission focused. Some also said that they did not serve locally because they were not religious.*

Did not engage because:

Many of those who did not go on a Global Engagement trip said it was because they were too busy with school and work and it didn't fit with their schedule, or that they were unable to go due to finances and the high cost of the trips. Some others had also mentioned that they had gone on trips in the past or were planning on them in the future, but that now wasn't the best time. There were also others who struggled with the concept and motives of going on a mission trip.*

14.) I have grown in my desire to participate in God's transformative work in the world through OSD's programs (Local Engagement, Global Engagement, Discipleship Groups):

n = 589

Agree - 311

Disagree - 76

Not applicable - 201

Discipleship Ministries

15.) Did you or will you participate in a Discipleship Group (D-Group) through the Office of Service and Discipleship this year? n = 589

Yes - 112

No - 476

If yes, where? n = 80

If no, why not: n = 47

It appears most individuals have little to no time in joining a D-Group, whether it be due to their schedule or the times offered. A handful of people said they were not religious nor felt there was community with the D-Groups. A large number of individuals had their D-Groups on campus and a good portion of those who replied “no” to the question had other forms of D-Groups available to them, outside of APU.*

16.) Which of the following best describes your participation in discipleship-centered mentorship during the last year? n = 595

Question	Total
I have a mentor through Discipleship Ministries	52
I have a mentor who is an APU employee, but is not associated with Discipleship Ministries	69

Other – please specify

With a total of 41 answers, most people said that they were unaware that there were mentorship opportunities for students on campus. There were also several who said that they would like a mentor, despite not having one yet. A few people mentioned that they were afraid that the mentor's views would not line up with theirs, either because they were non-Christian or another religion, or because they had a hard time finding mentors in the past who aligned with their views and worked well with them.*

17.) My small group participation in the past year is best described as: n = 595

Answer	Total
An official D-Group through Discipleship Ministries	105
A small group organized by my friends (not through Discipleship Ministries)	108
A small group led by an APU faculty or staff (not through Discipleship Ministries)	25
A small group organized by a local church	94
A small group or gathering(s) in partnership with an outside organization	32
I am not in a small group.	310
Other (please specify):	7

Small Group Participation

It appears that a significant portion of the survey respondents are not engaged in small groups. Apart from the official D-groups organized by OSD, many students participate in small groups organized by friends and churches. The fact that a majority of the student body is not involved in small groups raises concerns. Primarily, students cited scheduling conflicts as the main reason for not participating in a small group; they felt that the time commitment required was incompatible with their busy schedules. Another considerable portion of participants mentioned disinterest in joining a small group, partly because they doubted their ability to connect well within such a setting or because they lacked knowledge on how to initiate connections within a small group.*

If you have not been in a small group in the past year, please check all that apply:

If no, why did you not have a meal plan? n = 245

Why Did You Not Have a Meal Plan?

The data suggests that commuters generally opt out of purchasing meal plans. Among those living on campus without a meal plan, a significant majority cited cost as the primary deterrent. While affordability stood out as the foremost concern for residents, dissatisfaction with the overall dining experience closely followed. Many respondents were deterred from meal plans due to their dissatisfaction with the quality and variety of food options. Additionally, numerous participants expressed frustration with the limited operating hours of dining services, finding them inconvenient.*

For the “other” category, most students seemed to misunderstand the department their major fell under. Many students responded with “psychology” and “STEM/engineering,” which fell under schools of Behavioral and Applied Sciences, as well as Liberal Arts and Sciences, as mentioned above. A few masters students input Marriage and Family Therapy Programs, and Seminary which should not happen and was inputted accidentally.*
